

Never Done!

THE GARDEN CLUB OF HARVARD VOLUME XXXI-ISSUE 5

Here's What Bill Thinks...

Happy New Year. 2025...Remember when we went from 1999 to 2000 and we thought all the computers would crash and the locks in all the banks and prisons would pop open?

It's a fun time to be a gardener...making plans; figuring out where to put the new ones; shall I move/transplant this one? Maybe split these and have more for the plant sale; remember the sun and shade will be different in June, and on and on...

I got my Johnny's catalog on December 30, 2024...earliest ever.

So, let's stay warm and cozy during this time. Know that under the snow and cold, the bugs and beetles are trying to do the same. Nurture your houseplants. Map out your gardens.

Let's be comforted by the fact that we are active stewards of this earth and springtime, our time, is fast approaching.

Bill Loehfelm

Ira Ockene, member since 2023 (family membership with Judy Ockene), passed away on Christmas Day 2024.

MOVED

Anne DeBoalt, who joined the Garden Club in 1972, moved to Sykesville to be closer to her family in Maryland. We wish her lots of happiness in her new home.

Her new address is 7200 Third Avenue, C-36, Sykesville, MD 21784

THE WOMAN'S CLUB INVITES

Very popular for grandparents to take their grandchildren!

Or you could invite your friends to get together in a lovely place to chat while enjoying a typical English afternoon tea.

It's a new year and time to be thinking about this year's garden.

January (or late December!) means seed catalogs and dreams of everything green and growing. You'll probably get some extras, so bring them in to share with the rest of us at our January meeting.

Winter is a great time to learn online, and I have a couple of links for you. First, a slightly unusual series of short videos: https://www.youtube.com/@RootedPlantVideos

You might also want to look at the library of webinars available from Sudbury Valley Trustees: https://www.svtweb.org/svt-webinars-recorded-nature-programs

Another place to go for a winter evening dreaming about summer in your garden is Grow Native Massachusetts. Here is the page with all their recorded 'Evenings with Experts', a wealth of great lectures to choose from. https://grownativemass.org/Great-Resources/experts-videos

Finally, here's a link to a winter seed-sowing demonstration from the Wild Seed Project in Maine! https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SrxPptlU5kk

In the Herb Garden - Basil-ly speaking

Info: Jane Vasta, Maureen Remeika and MaryAnn Piasecki

If there is one thing that sells out quickly at our plant sale, it's basil. This year, 2025, we will be offering two types of basil:

- * Mediterranean or sweet basil (Ocimum basilicum) cultivar "Genovese",
- * Thai basil (Ocimum basilicum thyrsifolium)

Mediterranean or sweet basil is a member of the mint family (Lamiaceae). It belongs to the genus Ocimum, derived from the Greek ozo which means to smell, in reference to the strong odors of the species, Ocimum basilicum has at least 60 varieties.

Thai basil has a distinct chemical composition, most notably containing a higher concentration of the compound estragole, which gives it a stronger, spicier flavor. Sweet basil tends to have more linalool (naturally occurring terpene alcohol) and other components contributing to a milder, sweeter taste. All basil types share some common compounds like α -pinene and limonene, but the proportions differ significantly

- Culinary uses: Thai basil has a distinct flavor, with notes of anise, licorice, and a slight mint kick. Thai basil is often used in dishes that require a bold taste, like stir-fries, curries, and Southeast Asian cuisine. Sweet basil is more commonly used in Italian dishes like pesto, pizza and pasta. It's fabulous on avocado toast, ice cream and gin and tonics.
- Growing Conditions: Both types of basil prefer full sun (6 to 8 hours) and rich organic well-drained but damp soil.

Loaves and Fishes: Food security is important!

As a dedicated garden club, we're proud to be an integral part of the Harvard community. Here is a list of what is most needed, even beyond the holidays.

Broth/stock	Flavored rice	Canned pasta (like SpagettiOs)
Crackers	Hearty soups	Albacore tuna
Poise and menstrual products	Ensure	Coffee (no K cups)
Depends— unisex is most helpful, large and extra-large seem to be in shortest supply		Diapers and pullups, especially large sizes 5, and 6.

January 9: Williams conservation land.

Williams Pond was given to the Town in 1966 by Alexander and Peggy Williams, in memory of their son Lieutenant James Lincoln Williams. It was originally created as an ice pond. There is an abundance of wildflowers in the area, and it is also enjoyed by local birdwatchers. Some birds to look for are: green heron, great blue heron, mallard, wood duck, and kingfisher.

In 1987 an adjacent 8-acre parcel, part of the Great Elms conservation land, was acquired. The trail on this land goes through an open field and leads to Murray Lane, where one can enter the main section of the Great Elms conservation land.
